Appreciating the significance of the knowledge we gain by examining the past is what the Monroe Historical Preservation Society is all about. We are dedicated to taking an active role in preserving our town's history by identifying and documenting sites and structures of historic importance. In an ever-changing world, it is sometimes difficult to maintain a sense of community. Many of us have moved to this area over the past few years and left behind our hometowns...our roots. What is important for us to remember, however, is that Monroe is our town now. We must help to guard it against over development and protect it through this time of rapid growth.
